RICHMOND, March 29.
Examiner has Northern dates to the 25th.

A special dispatch, dated McMinnville, Tenn., March 27, says: Gen. Morgan had a severe fight with the Federals near Milton, March 20th. Lasted five hours. Federals repulsed and driven eight miles. Our loss fifteen killed and seventy-five wounded. Federal loss about twice that number. They advanced to draw our forces from Liberty but they were compelled to fall back to Murfreesboro.

Willey's amendment and Constitution of the New State of Virginia were ratified on the 25th by an almost unanimous vote. Lincoln and his friends at Washington

CAMP NEAR FREDERICKSBURG, VA.

Mr. Editor: The monotony of the times in camp prevent me, as usual, from communicating anything of interest. Couched in our snug pavilions, we hear the sound of the distant cannon, which assures us that the chain of inertness and monotony will soon be broken, and that action and changes will suddenly follow. Almost every warm day we hear cannonading beyond Fredericksburg, which shows their determined intention to cross and attack us as early as possible. Every preparation is now being made for the coming campaign.

There are in the Randalburg Rifles some slight cases of sickness. Sergeant Loda, whom I mentioned in my last, is not yet convalescent.

Snow is now falling, which, agreeable to some calculations, is the twenty-fourth that has fallen in this part of Virginia this winter.

A FEAT OF DARING.—A correspondent of the Chattanooga Rebel vouches for the literal correctness of the following statement, it being taken from official sources:

Two days before the battle of Murfreesboro', First Lieut. C. C. White, Company A, 10th South Carolina Regiment, was on picket half a mile in front of our line. Having taken three men and started to establish communication with the pickets on his right, he was suddenly surrounded by a party of Yankee cavalry, and ordered to surrender. Seeing he was overpowered, he gave up his sword. The Lieut. commanding the Yankees then ordered him to the rear. He started, but noticing the Yankee looking agitated, immediately turned and grappled him, calling to his three men to knock down as many as they could, and to his company to rally to his assistance. Having succeeded in getting a sabre, he wounded several of the enemy, and kept them all at bay till his company came up, when he called out to them, "Shoot the rascals—don't mind me." They fired, killing some and driving off the rest. By the time he had reformed his company, he was charged by a pretty large force of cavalry, whom he repulsed with a loss of fourteen killed and three wounded, left upon the field. Among the Yankees killed was a Major Rosengarten of Philadelphia.

FOUND DEAD.—Edmond Wages, a deserter from Capt. Waties' Company of Artillery, and his brother, Bill Wages, a conscript, of this District, have eluded the vigilance of the proper officers for several months, and been reported as committing all sorts of depredations on their neighbors in the sand hills—killing stock, stealing produce, &c. On Tuesday night last, while camping in the woods, they were both shot and killed, and up to this time no information has been obtained as to the person or persons by whom the deed was done.—Southern Guardian.

IMPRESSION.—It will be seen, by the remarks of Mr. Baldwin, which we publish to-day, that officers of the government have no authority of law for impressing private property. The Attorney General of the Confederate States has so declared. Congress has passed no law on the subject; and that body has no right under the Constitution to authorize the impressment of private property without making "just compensation" to the owner.—Standard.

CHARLOTTE.

Thursday Morning, April 2, '63.

The Confederate Tax Bill. We publish in another column a synopsis of the Confederate Tax Bill as it has passed the House of Representatives. Its wise provisions we hope and believe will receive the hearty approval of every taxpayer in the Confederacy who places a higher estimate upon the country than upon the perishable article which can afford only temporary comfort.

Mail Contractors and Carriers. In the Confederate States Senate, on the 20th inst., the Bill exempting Mail Contractors and Carriers from the requirements of the Conscription Law was passed.

April made a fool of us yesterday morning. Radishes all gone; beans killed; asparagus ditto, &c. Ice 4th of inch—wind due north—cold as "get out."

Parents and Children.

If parents generally knew as well as those whose business it is not the whereabout, habits and indulgences of their dear boy children, in day time and night time, it strikes us that there might be great improvement made in all these respects, especially in the particular of manners; and as manners to a great extent make the man, they should be taught early in order to have time to strengthen and mature. We say it, and we say the truth, without reference to particular individuals, that the dear little fellows who are permitted to go at large, to find amusements and associations of their own choosing, about this place, are in a fair way to run to rank, bitter weeds in the family and social parturite. It is the nature and enthusiasm of children to rove in pursuit of excitement, misadventure taking pleasure; and in the instances we mean, this self-willed inauguration of ways and means for it, will some day bring sorrow, to many a heart that now feels it is fondly doing its duty to these treasures indentured by the great Father for better purposes.

We beseech you return in these things and become earnest, affectionate and firm workers in the discharge of such duties as look to the cultivation of different tastes—that look to the moral and intellectual saving of their young hearts and plastic minds from the moral leprosy and taints and dangers that beset their unguided ways—attend now and at once to the education of their physical, moral and intellectual being, and the day is not far distant in the future when they will grow up around you (though it may be in the season of your sore and yellow leaf), young men possessed of all the elements that go to make up a character meet for the discharge and performance of all the high and ennobling duties of life. And you will have the proud consciousness, if not before, at any rate, in passing away, that they are as brands snatched from the burning; and may be then, if not before, thank us for "a word to the wise."

Death of Gen. Sumner.

Major General E. V. Sumner, of the Federal army, who has figured very conspicuously during the present war, died in New York last week. Gen. S. resigned upon the appointment of Hooker to the command of the Army of the Potomac. He entered the old army in 1819, was promoted to the rank of Colonel in 1855, and had attained to his 61st year at the time of his death.

NORTH CAROLINA MONEY.—We regret to learn that considerable inconvenience has been felt by the North Carolina troops now on this coast, owing to the refusal of the people in many instances, to receive North Carolina State currency in payment for purchases. The reluctance to take this kind of money is, of course, due solely to the fact that it has never hitherto circulated here, and is, consequently, unfamiliar to the mass of our population. In point of fact the North Carolina notes are fully as good as any money now in circulation and the credit of that staunch old State stands quite as high as that of any other member of the Confederacy. We hope, therefore, that a more accommodating spirit may be manifested hereafter by the people of this State, that the gallant sons of North Carolina, who are here to repel the invader from our homes, may have no further cause for complaint in this respect.—Charlotte Mercury.

Appropos to the above, we subjoin an extract from the correspondent of the Fayetteville Observer, on a visit to South Carolina:

"N. C. Treasury notes pass freely everywhere I have been, and the fugable six per cents are gladly taken in any quantity. I do not know that the Banks received them on deposit, but think it likely. So far as I have seen, North Carolina Treasury Notes are as good here as any other except Bank Notes. There is not, so far as I could see, any great prejudice or dislike to our good old State, but very great interest felt in the development of her resources, particularly the iron and coal. Of course South Carolinians would like to benefit by their development, and why not, if they offer to our people better inducements than other markets? Reciprocity of feeling is the life of trade, and let that reciprocity become more general and Charleston will become the market or shipping port of one half of the produce of North Carolina. To more effectually bring about this a Railroad must exist from Fayetteville to Florence."

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER.—At the battle of Murfreesboro, the 16th Alabama regiment routed the 101st Ohio regiment, after an obstinate resistance. Col. Wood of the former and Col. Stein of the latter were both Methodist preachers.

Important Information.

The President has approved and signed the Act of Congress recently passed, regulating the issue and funding of Treasury notes. It is well, therefore, for the public to bear in mind that under the provisions of that Act all Treasury notes not bearing interest, issued previous to the 1st December last, will cease to be fundable in eight per cent. bonds or stock on the 23d day of April, inst., but will be fundable in seven per cent. bonds until the 1st of August. The expectation of a premium upon these notes has been defeated by the concentration in Richmond of large amounts from all parts of the Confederacy. The flow in that direction will doubtless continue until the 23d of April.

From Charleston, S. C.

We copy from the Charleston Courier of the 31st March, the following items of news from that section.

Striking News from the Coast.—A gentleman who arrived in this city on the Savannah train Monday afternoon, from Church Flats, reported that the enemy had landed in force on Stabrook's or John's Island. He also reported three gunboats and a number of transports lying off the Island.

This news was confirmed by other passengers on the train, who also stated that a skirmish had already taken place between our own and the enemy's pickets. It was added that we had taken three prisoners, two of them severely wounded. Another rumor was that our pickets had been driven in, and that the enemy were advancing.

General Hagood had ordered all females, children and non-combatants, to be removed from Adam's Run, and quite a number arrived with their baggage on the afternoon train. Adam's Run is about twelve miles distant from Seabrook's Island.

We have not learned of any official report of an engagement, but there is scarcely a doubt that the enemy are moving in the direction indicated. We may have startling news to-day. Different reports were about of the numbers of the enemy. Our forces there, however, are believed to be amply sufficient to give the invaders a warm welcome, and repeat the lessons of Pocotaligo and Secessionville.

FROM THE COAST.—We learn officially that the enemy made a landing on Cole's Island Friday night, and that they came there with one gunboat three transports and about two hundred men. Their object is supposed to be the leveling of the old fortifications on that island, and making a reconnaissance for the purpose of determining the best base of operations in their proposed attack on this city.

FROM ST. ANDREW'S BAY.—A party of Yankees landed at St. Andrew's, Fla., a few days since, for the purpose of plundering and burning. Capt. Robinson, with a portion of his command, fell upon them, and drove them to their boats—the Captain and his men wading in the water nearly up to their necks in pursuit—killing nine, and getting two guns. The Yankees surrendered, but a sudden breeze coming up, they made their escape in their boats. When the Yankees surrendered, Capt. R. ordered his men to cease firing, or more of them would have been killed.

THE ENEMY AT NORTH EDISTO.—We learn that on Thursday last four of the Yankee turreted iron-clads, with about twenty-three transports, were at North Edisto. No troops were seen to land. A scout reports, however, that a large number of negroes were embarked on the transports, to be landed at Edisto, with a view to plant the island with corn. The iron-clads, doubtless, accompanied the expedition to give protection. It needed, against Confederate batteries they may have supposed were erected there during the summer.

A JOYFUL RETURN.—Jok, a servant of a gentleman of this city, who has been an absentee from his master's premises about eighteen months, and during that time employed by the Abolitionists on St. Helena and the adjacent islands, returned on Friday morning to his master. He reports the negroes on the island in a destitute condition, and many anxious to return had they the facilities for doing so. He is very much emaciated, but will soon recover under home influences.

Commissioners to the General Assembly.

The Stated Clerks of Presbyteries are requested to send as soon as possible, to the Rev. F. P. Mallally, Columbia, S. C., the names of delegates from their respective bodies to the General Assembly. The object is to provide, before the day of meeting, a printed list, showing the home to which each member is assigned.

The case of the Alabama in the legal aspects, has been discussed by the British Judicial Society, under the presidency of Lord Stanley. Mr. W. Keer read an elaborate paper, arguing that we ought to have detained the Alabama, that we could not seize her on the high seas, that if she came into our ports her crew would be liable to a prosecution as offenders against the Foreign Enlistment Act. Different views were expressed by subsequent speakers. Lord Stanley thought that the question whether the Alabama could have been detained, whether her builders could have been prosecuted, were questions of evidence rather than of law. It was distinctly admitted that the Alabama was not a privateer.

FROZEN.—Seventy-five negroes were frozen to death in Memphis during one night in the last cold spell. Such is Yankee philanthropy and the fate of the negroes under Yankee protection.

BY BREAD IS DEAR.—The editor of the Milledgeville Recorder saw at Marshville last week a large building filled with sacks of government corn, said to contain 12,000 bushels, a great part of which was rotting. Any person acquainted with shelled corn in large bulk knows that when, from heat or moisture, decay once begins, it is like leaven which permeates the whole lump. This waste of the staff of life is positively a crime at this juncture, when the counties in upper Georgia are almost destitute of breadstuffs from the failure of the crops last year.

The British post office authorities have given notice of the suspension of the postal service with Mexico via the United States.

OBITUARY.

Mr. J. M. Chittwood, private in Company F, 56th regiment N. C. Troops, departed this life February 29th, 1863, at Wilson Hospital, N. C., of Typhoid Fever, aged 33 years.

The deceased was a good soldier, a Christian and a patriot. He was for several years before his death a consistent member of the Baptist Church; and a Deacon in the Church. Our fellow soldier has left us, but not without the hope that our loss is his eternal gain. He leaves a wife and three children, a large circle of friends and relatives, and his brother soldiers, who are battling for their country's rights, to mourn their loss. And often do we think of our brother soldier who has left us, and the many virtues he possessed.
